

Third Grade Literacy

Check out the Indiana Literacy Framework for guidance on literacy standards: www.doe.in.gov/literacy/framework

The Indiana Department of Education is dedicated to informing and educating families about your child's education since you are your child's first teacher. This guide provides an overview of the literacy skills and Indiana English/Language Arts standards your child will encounter and learn by the end of third grade.

Literacy skills your child will learn in third grade:

- > Read and understand new words as they appear in text using vowels, syllables, roots, affixes, and context clues
- > Independently read a text while working on fluency and comprehension
- > Read a variety of stories, plays, and poems

- > Ask and answer questions using evidence from the text
- > Describe how a character's actions contribute to the plot
- > Participate in class discussions about texts and share opinions

- > Write an informative composition including an introduction, supporting paragraphs, and conclusion about a topic or text
- > Research on a topic and write to persuade the reader why a certain course of action should be followed

Communicate with your child about school by asking:

- >Can you tell me about a text that you read today? What was the main idea?
- >What skills did you learn in reading today? Can you teach me?
- >What did you write about today?
- >Did you feel challenged today or did you need extra help?

Communicate with the school about your child:

- >Regularly ask or email about your child's academic progress, not just during parent-teacher conferences
- >Check-in on your child's social-emotional status and needs
- >Look for opportunities to volunteer in or out of the classroom

How you can help at home:

-> READ, READ, READ! Read to your child, listen to your child read, and ask questions about the story or text. Encourage your child to read independently every day.

Ask: “What was the story or text about?”

“Who were the characters and what happened to them?”

“How did the story end?”

“What do you predict will happen next?”

-> Listen to audiobooks in the car or put captions on the television. This adds interactions with texts to your child’s day.

-> Have your child write about a topic of interest or in response to a text. Bring this piece back several times and ask your child to look for specific conventions (capitalization, punctuation, spacing, complete sentences, commas, etc.) to edit or correct.

-> Encourage your child to illustrate and write paragraphs about a story or text they read. Your child could also write about what will happen next or the next chapter.

-> Allow your child to practice their typing skills. Ask them to type a response or persuade you about a topic of interest.

-> Look over papers that come home and review skills with your child. Offer review or enrichment of these skills. Ask your child if they can teach you what they learned.

-> Take your child to the public library and let them choose books. Ask a librarian to show you books on your child’s reading level. Let your child explore different genres and types of books (fiction, nonfiction, poems, cartoons, comics, etc).
